OSI Engages Services of Hara™ EEM

Environmental and Energy Management company's program will initially launch in US locations

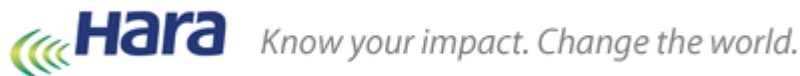

Aurora, IL, USA, May 9, 2011 – OSI has recently agreed to engage the services of Hara™ Environmental and Energy Management (Hara EEM). Hara EEM is a global leader in providing trusted, highly-configurable, cloud-based software solutions used by Fortune 500 companies and government organizations to improve efficiency, manage risk, and maximize shareholder value.

Select OSI plants in North America will test the Hara system over the next 12 months. The system will provide OSI with data on the collective resources that are consumed and expended, including:

- Energy
- Water
- Waste
- Carbon
- Other natural resources

"The Hara System will provide us with a 'best in class' sustainability management and reporting system," said Mike Boccio, Vice President and leader of OSI's Global and North American Sustainability Councils. "We are increasingly asked by our key customers to have this in place."

The ability to track and analyze this important information will assist OSI in the execution of its environmental and energy programs and will provide an assessment of the results per initiative. This system will also supply an audit trail for any current or future regulatory requirements.
